CWTI will not sell or rent any of your personally identifiable information to third parties. CWTI will not share any of your personally identifiable information with third parties except in the limited circumstances described below, or with your express permission (and with other CWTI customers as described above). These third parties are limited by law or by contract from using the information for secondary purposes beyond the purposes for which the information is shared.

1. We share information with companies that help us process the transactions you request and protect our customers' transactions from fraud, such as sharing your credit card number with a service that screens for lost and stolen card numbers. 5. We share aggregated statistical data with our business partners or for public relations. For example, we may disclose that a specific percentage of our users live in California. However, this aggregated information is not tied to personally identifiable information.
6. As with any other business, it is possible that CWTI in the future could merge with or be acquired by another company. If such an acquisition occurs, the successor company would have access to the information maintained by CWTI, including customer account information, but would continue to be bound by this Privacy Policy unless and until it is amended as described in Section A above.

Generally, users cannot opt out of these communications, but they will be primarily informational in nature rather than promotional.

We also use your e-mail address to send you other types of communications that you can control, including the CWTI newsletter, customer surveys and notice of special third-party promotions. You can choose whether to receive some, all or none of these communications when you complete the registration process, or at any time thereafter, by logging in to your account on the CWTI Web site and changing your preferences in the Profile page of the My Account tab.

In connection with independent audits of our financial statements and operations, the auditors may seek to contact a sample of our customers to confirm that our records are accurate. However, these auditors cannot use personally identifiable information for any secondary purposes.

We use IP addresses, browser types and access times to analyze trends, administer the site, improve site performance and gather broad demographic information for aggregate use.

In all cases, you must provide users with the opportunity to remove them from your database and review any information you have collected about them. In addition, under no circumstances, except as defined in this Section, can you disclose personally identifiable information about another CWTI user to any third party without our consent and the consent of such other user after adequate disclosure. Note that law enforcement personnel and other rights holders are given different rights with respect to information they access.

CWTI does not tolerate spam. Therefore, without limiting the foregoing, you may not add a CWTI user to your mail list (email or physical mail) without their express consent after adequate disclosure, even if said user has previously made a purchase from you. We strictly enforce our Anti-Spam Policy! To report CWTI-related spam to CWTI, please contact us at <http://www.cwti.us/Contact.asp>

D. Information Security

Information Security

CWTI is committed to handling your customer information with high standards of information security. Your credit card and bank account information are stored only in encrypted form on computers that are not connected to the Internet. We restrict access to your personally identifiable information to employees who need to know that information in order to provide products or services to you. We maintain physical, electronic and procedural safeguards that comply with federal regulations to guard your nonpublic personal information. We test our security systems regularly and also contract with outside companies to audit our security systems and processes.

The security of your CWTI account also relies on your protection of your CWTI password. You may not share your CWTI password with anyone. CWTI will never ask you to send your password or other sensitive information to us in an e-mail, though we may ask you to enter this type of information on the CWTI website.

Any e-mail or other communication requesting your password, asking you to provide sensitive account information via email, or linking to a website with a URL that does not begin with <http://www.cwti.net/> should be treated as unauthorized and suspicious and should be reported to CWTI immediately. If you do share your CWTI password with a third party for any reason, the third party will have access to your account and your personal information, and you may be responsible for actions taken using your password. If you believe someone else has obtained access to your password, please change it immediately by logging in to your account and changing your Profile settings, and also contact us right away as described in Section F below.

E. Accessing and Changing Your Information

You can review the personal information you provided us and make any desired changes to such information, or to the settings for your CWTI account, at any time by logging in to your account on the CWTI Web site and changing your preferences in the Profile page of the "My Account" tab. You can also close your account through the CWTI Web site. If you close your CWTI account, we will mark your account in our database as "Closed," but will keep your account information in our database. This is necessary in order to deter fraud, by ensuring that persons who try to commit fraud will not be able to avoid detection simply by closing their account and opening a new account. However, if you close your account, your personally identifiable information will not be used by us for any further purposes, nor sold or shared with third parties, except as necessary to prevent fraud and assist law enforcement, or as required by law.
